

FEELING THE BLUES

Four local designers on some of their favorite hues for covering your walls

SHERWIN-WILLIAMS NAVAL

"Although it is a darker color, it is sophisticated enough to work in every room of the home, and when paired with white trim, Naval creates a bold yet worldly atmosphere. I've used it in bedrooms, dining rooms, and powder baths."

ALLISON JAFFE
Allison Jaffe Interior Design

BENJAMIN MOORE GENTLEMAN'S GRAY

"Gentleman's Gray is the perfect navy, with just enough gray and teal to make it rich and moody. On walls the color creates a dramatic coziness that makes you want to nestle in. And on cabinets it gives a great pop against marble countertops and other seemingly stark neutrals."

EMILY BASHAM-HOELSCHER
High Contrast Design House

BENJAMIN MOORE QUIET MOMENTS

"Quiet Moments is one of those colors that leaves you asking, is it blue, blue-gray, or blue-green? It is a lovely, relaxing color that looks more like a neutral and is perfect for a calming bedroom, bathroom, or even a main living area. I used this color in my house seven years ago, and it is one of the few things I have not changed."

HEATHER BLUE HARKOVICH
Heather Scott Home & Design

BENJAMIN MOORE SLATE TEAL

"Peacock and teal are here to stay for a while. Slate Teal is the perfect deep blue to add loads of drama and moodiness, while being a fun alternative to navy. I've used it in an office, bedroom, and study. It also looks fabulous on glossy bookshelves."

SARAH WITTENBRAKER
Sarah Wittenbraker Interiors